

Keith "KB" Stallworth is Chairman of the Board of Utility Services of America, a holding company for a diverse group of businesses and investments built on the strength of providing competitively priced and performed electric distribution line clearance, overhead and underground electric distribution line construction, maintenance, emergency power restoration, storm and disaster response services to public utilities, municipalities and electric co-operatives since 1992. In 1999 Chairman Stallworth was recognized by Detroit Edison Company for exemplary electric distribution line clearance services, and in 2012 Utility Services of America was recognized by DTE Energy as "Supplier of the Year". Under his leadership Utility Services of America has provided electric distribution craft services to over 30 public utilities across America and provided power restoration support services in the aftermath of 20 hurricanes. The business magnet is also CEO of the Native Detroit Magazine, the former Deputy Director of the Michigan Department of Commerce and former State Marketing Executive of the Michigan Lottery. He managed the launch of the Michigan Lottery's 6 of 40 Lotto Game, managed the Yes Michigan Travel Bureau and Michigan Products Promotional Campaign, as well as coordinated Michigan's International Business hosting efforts associated with the Detroit Grand Prix. Chairman Stallworth also organized the Michigan Black Press Association to aggregate the Arbitron numbers of Black-owned radio stations and audited circulation numbers of weekly Black-owned newspapers to make them competitive for advertising buys with the State of Michigan and national advertising agencies. As an investor and B2B Strategic Advisor, Chairman Stallworth brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to MCS Multimedia.
